H WARANA, JULY 22xp. 1886. Some of the most extraordinary remarks, we have road on the quastion of the fall of prices appear in a recent issue of the Japan Gazette. "We must remember," save our contemporary, "that it is not scarcity of gold or silver that is making things cheap. Money in any form is not scarce. It is abundant, and can be had at low rates by any one who thinks he can amploy it profitably. Gold is not scarce, and cannot in the nature of things | pany, both on preference and ordinary shares, be monopolized by any one country. Whatever is the currency of the civilized world wherever it may be, it lies at the order of any nation that is in unusual need of it. unatter in what treasury or hank gold may list May she was spoken in the North Atlantic becany country that wants it can have it by lowering the prices of the com nodities it has for sale. In fact, gold goes around the world, like the 'ocean' tramps,' in perpetual search for a good market. It never rests or stagnates anywhere. Any community can have it by offering to sell cheaper than its neighbours." That gold was scarce was fact we had imagined even the most hot headed of mono-metallists would have concoded. Columns of statistics have been published on this subject, but whether they are advanced in support of the arguments of the bi-metallists or the mono-metallists they all clearly demonstrate that gold is scarce. Hance its appreciation as compared with commodities and the consequent low rates prevailing for the Opium Ordinance, and had only about four the letter. If gold were plentiful, if the Australian and Californian discoveries were repeated, there can be no question that, as happened before, the metal would become cheap and the prices of other things as measured in gold would rise. But, says our contemporary, money is abundant and can be had at low rates by any one who thinks be can employ it profitably. Here again, the low rates are consequent on the difficulty of employing money profitably. Land in England bought ten years ago now sells for it 'cost, and as no one can be sure the downward movement has stopped indeed as there is good reason to believe prices have not yet quite touched their hottom, investors are shy, and capitalists, who can find no more profitable use for their ments are in much the same position as land the outturn is constantly decreasing in value. class. This anxiety to let money out at low! one step removed from boarding, and is a trade. If prices were rising instead of failing there would be a demand for money, because the borrower would feel that there was a prospect of his being able to employ it profitably and leave a margin for himself after telligent individual ought to be to secure stability in the standard of value so that such fluctuations should be rendered as infrequent and slight as possible. This would be secured by the adoption of bimetallism, because silver and gold together are more stable as regards outturn and consequent value than either of them singly. Indeed, silver prices have remained pretty steady while gold prices have been passing through 122 the severe crisis which has of late attracted such widespread and anxious attention and which is still far from being over.

Dr. E. A. Aldridge, in his report on the health of Heiliow for the half year ended 31st March last, says:-The officials and merchants of this district, considering that the medical knowledge of the men who professed to be native dectors was of the very poorest description; subscribed the Government school buildings at Horhow into a hospital. The hospital is conducted on the the services of three men, who have received a medical training in that institution, have been engaged. Medicine and advice are given gratis to the poorest applicants, and prescriptions to those who can afford to pay for the making up of the same at one of the native drag stores. When necessary, patients are attended at their homes, the hire of the ductor's chair coolies being only asked for. The chance of obtaining butter native treatment has been greatly taken a success. During the list, unhealthy months of June, July, and Angust, when so many natives suffered from bowel complaints, the hospital books record that advice was given on 7.300 occasions. The average monthly entries since the opening have been about 1,100. Vaccination was commenced at the hospital in the middle of December, and will continue to the end of April. Up to the end of March 1,033 were vaccinated. With the exception of the first few days, arm-to-arm vaccination has been performed, the charge being 40 cash. This small sum is given to the mother of the child from whose arm the lymph is taken. Should the doctor be asked to visit the parent's house, a private fee of a dollar or so is expected to be paid. The July number of the Chinese Recorder includes amongst its contents the following papers i of general interest :- "Religious scots in North China," by the Roy. Dr. Edkins; "A visit to the Dogheaded Barbarians," by the Rev. F. Oblinger; and "The introduction of Mahomedanism into China,", by the Ber. Geo. Clarke. The other leading papers are of almost exclusively Missionary interest. The Rev. Mark Williams in a page and a half of wrotched was practised I am told that the natives per-

Young olive plants around us stand, In number half of Jacob's band ; On shorter Catachism bred; On healthful, highland outmeat fed.

And so on. A Missionary no doubt like other people must have his hours of relaxation, but if is recreation runs into postising after this manner there is no reason why he should expose his weakness to the public. In the "Editorial Notes" we find the following: -" From a correstoward the Mission Chapel and is a constant officials is Capt. Lew Bush, 'the only one of eleven who saved his boat in the naval fight | 20th inst. He was found in the complainant's at Foochow. He afterward ran the blockade Chinese troops there, and thus saving the island for China. But he is sentenced to three years' banishment." In a note on the proclamation of the Governor of Cheklang on the kidnapping of children a very different complexion is given that document from the one given in the translations which appeared in our Shanghai contemporaries. According to the Recorder the proclamation refers to the kidnapping of children by foreigners and it states that "It is just for that reason that to every seaport the trading steamer comes." This seems too absurd an accusation even for a Chinese official to make, and we cannot but think the Recorder's translator has misapprehended the drift of the proclamation.

THE SINGAPORE DEFENCES.

At a recent meeting of the Straits Legislative council the question of the fortifications was again brought up on a proposal for a grant of 20,000 for a special work. As the debate contains one or two references of interest in Hongkong we reproduce the report from the Strait

The COLONIAL SECRETARY—Sir, at the last mieting of Council, I gave notice that I should have to ask the Council for a vote, on account, of 520,000 for the construction of a mole for a fortification at the Malay Spit near Tanjong Pagar. I will not detain the Council long with an explanation of the reasons for this application. I have only to say that I regret that my honourable friend the Colonial Engineer is not here to give the Council those explanations which he could give much better than I can. General Wong and some other military officers required then very cordially, and both the Infantry and Artil lery were put through their mancayres, the lat ter firing several volleys of cannon. On the nex day, the Vicercy Li's Body Guard were drilled, and the French Admiral was also present.

PEKING.

The new British Minister and family arrived here on the 13th of June. They came by the T'ung-chow canal to the East side gate and theare in chairs to the Legation. Several members the chief officer $100, second mate and second of the Legations rode out to meet the party and welcome them to Peking. British interests may safely be entrusted to the care of the new Minister. This large addition to the Legation is valuable angmentation of our Peking circle, for Genuineness of the Stuff and the Perfection of several families have already migrated to the Manufacture. of Legation were received at the Tsungli Yamen for the first time on Friday, the 18th; the late Charge d'Affaires with the Chinese and Assistant Scoretaries accompanied His Excellency. It is certain a good impression has been created. Great Britain by force of her predominating trade and the pluck, industry, push, integrity and generosity of her merchants must always make herself felt as a great power in the East. Mr Hol combe has returned from his flying visit to Shanghai. The new second secretary of the Russian Lugation, the Prince Anatole Lobanon de Rostow with the Princess have also arrived. We are soon to lose Dr. Lambuth, late of Socchow, who goes to Japan two months hence to initiate a mission there in connection with the Southern Methodist Mission with which he formerly, while in your neighbourhood, wasconnected. Although he is but a recent arrival the way of duty will prevent these mines from here, his loss will be felt, particularly by the being worked. We understand that another Young Mens Christian Association, in which he took a great interest. Another friend and supporter of the same cause, Mr. Rhain, Secretary to the Dutch Legation, will probably leave for Europe on the arrival of his chief, who is shortly exinstituted will also suffer from the departure of those two gentlemen. The departure of the latter gentleman will necessitate the election of a Secretary to the Peking Oriental and North Tract Societies respectively. The family of the British Minister and other members of Legation and well known residents have moved to the Hills. Lawn tennis for the season has now been started. as usual in the British Legation.
